Fighting for Our Lives: Images of Protest

Photographs by Keith Gulley

*Some faces have been blurred for anonymity.

Keith Gulley is an Atlanta-based freelance photographer. His passion for photography emanated from his father and godfather, both avid photographers. They instilled a technical inclination in him, as well as a sense of what makes for good composition. Keith began honing his craft with black and white photographs and slides, and eventually became recognized for his promo shots for a local rap artist. He went on to create works for Black Cinema Cafe and Quinn Hood of Global Images, later leading to photographing Spike Lee, Jim Brown, and America Ferrera. Keith shoots weddings, special events, political campaigns, and activism.
